R/A LASKOV'S 1ST ORDER OF THE DAY

Soldiers of the Israel Defence Forces!

Today Rav-Aluf Moshe Dayan is completing his tour of duty as Chief of the General Staff after fruitful activity which brought us as far as the Sizal Campaign. The fighting principles that he has institled in the Israel Defence Forces will serve us as the basis for the continued development of combat methods and their adaptation to the changing conditions of modern warfare.

We wish him success for his future.

For us, peace is not merely a means for attaining prosperity; it is a hope and an aim at one and the same time. We must remember that peace is not a state of affairs bestowed on us as a present — like any other state upon its foundation. We must guard it like a sacred flame. The renaissance of Israel, the settling of the State, our preparedness, and our ability to fight if we are attacked — these are the guarantees of our existence! Victories in the past are no guarantee for victory in the future, unless we keep in front of us the clear duty to exact ever greater preparedness and attength from every corps, every unit, every headquarters — with the means and the time at our disposal.

We can preserve our superiority in every respect, except sheer numbers, on condition that we are better trained, shoot more accurately, learn to build our daily life on the duties and responsibilities deriving from "brotherhood in arms," and make the command "Follow me:" both the pattern and the basis of our combat principles and all our activities; if, in other words, we gain the advantage by means of speed and concentration, and if every man does his duty to the security of the State with devotion, loyalty and courage.

R/A DAYAN'S FAREWELL MESSAGE

On January 29, 1988, I am completing my tour of duty as Chief of the General Staff of the Israel Defence Forces. I have served in that capacity for over four years and have had the privilege of witnessing the reshaping and strengthening of our forces on land, at sea, and in the air, as well as seeing these forces prove their courageous fighting spirit in retaliatory operations and in the Sinai Campaign.

As we proudly survey the road upon which we have

As we proudly survey the road upon which we have travelled we know that the source of our Army's strength lies in the task that the Hebrew people has imposed

I doubt whether there is another people in the world today whose problems of security and of ensuring its very existence are as grave as ours.

The obligation of safeguarding the peace for our people and country is a heavy one, and fateful. It has been instrumental in forging the might of the Israel Defence.

The Israel Defence Forces, however, would not have been able to carry out their duties, had not the fire of devotion to their task been burning in the hearts of its soldiers. It is a task for the sake of which hundreds of the best from among us have failen during these four years. Assaf Simhoni and Shmuel Glinka, Uri Eylan and Varda Friedman, Roy Rothberg and Guliver — they are but a few of those whose light we shall always carry within us.

Commanders and soldiers of the Israel Defence Forces! Accept the expression of my fullest appreciation for the

WIND CAN SUPPLY CHEAP POWER'

TEL AVIV, Wednesday, —
The harnessing of strong winds, especially in the Naphtali hills, to drive electricity generators, would provide a cheap source of twothirds of the power at present produced in Israel.
This was claimed by Dr. Y.
Frankel, a member of the Israel Research Council, in a lecture at Beit Liessin tonight on "Use of Wind Power." The lecture was a contribution to a symposium on "New Sources of Energy."

Strong winds prevail in all parts of the country and wind-driven generators with a capacity of 200 kilowatts, could be put up for IL600
each, Dr. Frankel said. Hussein Contacts

The 1958/59 budget, tabled in the Knesset last week, amounts to ILL,162.9m, an increase of 10 per cent over the 1957/58 budgets which totalled IL.1053.8m.

The main problem facing 1997/88 budgets which totalled II.1.053.6m.

The main problem facing the country in the coming year will be how to increase the necessary import of raw materials, equipment and consumption goods in the face of insufficient inflow of public capital from abroad," said Mr. Eshkol. Economic conditions in the U.S. may adversely affect income from the United Jewish Appeal and from the sale of Development Bonds. Income from U.S. economic aid is not expected to rise and the Government is faced with growing expenditure on the repayment of previous loans. These facts oblige the Government to increase its foreign currency reserves.

Temporary Delay in Citrus Packing

During the last four days, the loading of Citrus Fruit in Jaffa Port has come to a halt due to stormy seas. In addition to this, heavy rains have prevented the normal loading of the many boats waiting in Haifa Port. As a result, large quantities of fruit have accumulated in the Porto' stores and on the trains. Under these circumstances, the Citrus Marketing Board has decided to discontinue the picking and packing of the fruit for several days, until such time as the pressure can be relieved.

The Prime Minister said that "although I can well understand your feelings, I do not share your fears."

He went on to describe the "good characteristics and special qualities" of the four previous Chiefs-of-Staft, noting that each one was different from the others in many ways, but all were alike in their devotion to the army and the State.

After describing Laskov's early achievements of which he had learned from others, Mr. BenGurion aid: "I was impressed by the excellence of your character, your modest courage and your unbounded loyalty" the first time he met him.

The Prime Minister continued: "You passed a unique test—upparalleled ameng our Army commanders" — when you were appointed Commander-in-Chief of the Air Force in August, 1951," and managed to climinat, the friction between the High Command and the Air Force in such a way as to "quickly win the hearts of the Air Force Commanders...

Reviewing the Government's efforts in raising the educational and health levels, Mr. Eshkol pointed out that the number of school pupils reached 357,000 in 1957, as compared with 108,000 in 1949, infant mortality dropped from 52 per thousand to 36 per thousand and the average life expectancy has risen from 65 years in 1949 to 68 in 1957 for males, and 1957 for females, (Mr. Eshkol facetiously remarked that we have to expect an influx of women into the country to take advantage of the higher life expectancy.)

The real consumption per er life expectancy.)

The real consumption per bead has risen by 33 per cent, and in 1957 reached ILA,050 (at 1956 prices). This is evidenced by the high level of nutrition, clothing, housing and domestic equipment enjoyed by almost all strata of the population.

Mr. Eshkol warned that this increase in consumption is not the fruit of our own labour. The rapid rise in the standard of living with the absence of considerable savings are slowing down the necessary advance towards economic independence.
